All significant intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated in consolidation. Certain schedules have been provided to provide direct cash receipts and disbursement information that relates solely to the debtors.

On November 22, 2002, PSC Inc. and PSC Scanning, Inc. (both US corporations) (the debtors) filed for protection from creditors under Chapter 11, of the US Bankruptcy Code. The Company filed a Plan of Reorganization outlining its anticipated treatment of various creditor classes on the same date. At the time of the filing, the debtors had negotiated a Debtor-In-Possession financing arrangement (DIP financing) to provide up to $20 million in working capital for the period of reorganization, subject to certain performance covenants. This DIP financing was subsequently approved by the Bankruptcy Court. As of January 24, 2002, the Company was in compliance with all performance covenants.

2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFIGANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The accompanying unaudited consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States. The preparation of these financial statements requires us to make estimates and judgments that affect the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses, and related disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities. On an on-going basis, we evaluate our estimates, including those related to revenue recognition, bad debts, inventories, warranty obligations, and income taxes. We base our estimates on historical experience and on various other assumptions that are believed to be reasonable under the circumstances, the results of which form the basis for making judgments about the carrying value of assets and liabilities that are not readily apparent from other sources. Actual results may differ from these estimates under different assumptions or conditions. We believe the following critical accounting policies and the related judgments and estimates affect the preparation of our consolidated financial statements.

The Company reports its results from operations on a fiscal month reporting basis. As such, the first and second month of each quarter is a 4-week month and the third month of each quarter is a 5-week month. At yearend, the last month of the year is extended or reduced so that the year end falls on the last day of the calendar year. Management believes that this reporting policy facilitates effective management of the business. However, for monthly reporting purposes, comparability of monthly results can be affected by the differences in the length of the reporting period.

REVENUE RECOGNITION. Our policy is to recognize revenue upon delivery of our products to our customers and the fulfillment of all contractual terms and conditions, pursuant to the guidance provided by Staff Accounting Bulletin No. 101, Revenue Recognition in Financial Statements (SAB 101), issued by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Revenue related to the sales of the Company's scanning products is generally recognized when products are shipped or services are rendered, the risk of loss has passed to the customer, the sales price is fixed or determinable, and collectibility is reasonably assured. Some distributors and dealer agreements allow for return of product and/or price protection under certain conditions within limited time periods. The Company maintains a reserve for sales returns and price adjustments based on historical experience and other qualitative factors. Estimated sales returns and price protection amounts are reserved for against revenue in the month in which it is recognized. These estimates have not differed materially from actual results. Service and maintenance sales are recognized over the contract term.

ALLOWANCE FOR DOUBTFUL ACCOUNTS. Our policy is to maintain allowances for estimated losses resulting from the inability of our customers to make required payments. Credit limits are established through a process of reviewing the financial history and stability of each customer. Where appropriate, we obtain credit rating reports and financial statements of the customer when determining or modifying their credit limits. We regularly evaluate the collectibility of our trade receivable balances based on a combination of factors. When a customer's account balance becomes past due, we initiate dialogue with the customer to determine the cause. If it is determined that the customer will be unable to meet its financial obligation to us, such as in the case of a bankruptcy filing, deterioration in the customer's operating results or financial position or other material events impacting their business, we record a specific allowance to reduce the related receivable to the amount we expect to recover given all information presently available.

We also record an allowance for all other customers based on certain other factors including the length of time the receivables are past due and historical collection experience with individual customers. If the financial conditions of those customers were to deteriorate, however, resulting in their inability to make payments, we may need to record additional allowances, which would result in additional selling, general and administrative expenses being recorded for the period in which such determination was made.

INVENTORY RESERVES. As a designer and manufacturer of bar code verification products, we are exposed to a number of economic and industry factors that could result in portions of our inventory becoming either obsolete or in excess of anticipated usage. These factors include, but are not limited to, technological changes in our markets, our ability to meet changing customer requirements, competitive pressures in products and prices, and the availability of key components from our suppliers. Our policy is to establish inventory reserves when conditions exist that suggest that our inventory may be in excess of anticipated demand, or is obsolete based upon our assumptions about future demand for our products and market conditions. We regularly evaluate the ability to realize the value of our inventory based on a combination of factors including the following: historical usage rates, forecasted sales or usage, product end of life dates, estimated current and future market values and new product introductions. Purchasing requirements and alternative usage avenues are explored within these processes to mitigate inventory exposure. When recorded, our reserves are intended to reduce the carrying value of our inventory to its net realizable value.

PRODUCT WARRANTIES. Our products are sold with warranty provisions that require us to remedy deficiencies in quality or performance of our products over a specified period of time at no cost to our customers. Our policy is to establish warranty reserves at levels that represent our estimate of the costs that will be incurred to fulfill those warranty requirements at the time that revenue is recognized. We believe that our recorded liability at December 31, 2002, is adequate to cover our future cost of materials, labor and overhead for the servicing of our products sold through that date. If actual product failures, or material or service delivery costs differ from our estimates, our warranty liability would need to be revised accordingly.

INCOME TAXES. The Company has recorded a valuation allowance to reduce our deferred tax assets to the amount that is more likely than not to be realized. The Company has assessed the valuation allowance based upon our estimate of future taxable income covering a relatively short time horizon given the volatility in the markets we serve and our historic operating results. External market data is considered in this evaluation. The availability of tax planning strategies to utilize our recorded deferred tax assets is also considered.

DEBT. Prepetition senior secured and subordinated unsecured debt was acquired from the Company's prior lenders by affiliates of Littlejohn & Co., LLC (Littlejohn), a private investment firm based in Greenwich, Connecticut. Littlejohn makes control equity investments in mid-sized companies that can benefit from operational or financial restructuring. Immediately following the debt purchase, and agreement with the terms of an arrangement between Littlejohn and the Company, the debtors filed a petition from protection from creditors under Chapter 11 of the US Bankruptcy Code. Simultaneously with the filing of the bankruptcy petition, the debtors also filed a Plan of Reorganization (the Plan) which, among other provisions, contemplates that all pre-petition debt will be converted to equity upon confirmation of the Plan.

As an integral part of the arrangement between Littlejohn and the Company, a DIP financing arrangement was agreed upon, to provide working capital financing during the period of reorganization, for amounts up to $20 million. The DIP financing arrangement provides that the Company maintain certain financial and non-financial performance covenants, including minimum revenue, cash receipts and cash disbursements results and well as cash flow and EBITDA performance measurements. In addition, there are certain non-financial performance measures related to progressing efficiently through the reorganization process. The DIP financing arrangement expires on March 31, 2003.

GOODWILL. In November 2002, in conjunction with the filing of the Chapter 11 reorganization, all goodwill was determined to be impaired. The write-off resulted in a charge of $63 million recorded in November 2002.
