NEWS RELEASE

ABRAXAS INCREASES SIZE AND REDUCES COST OF FIRST LIEN CREDIT FACILITY

SAN ANTONIO, TX (February 24, 2004) - Abraxas Petroleum Corporation (AMEX: ABP) today announced that it has executed an amendment to its First Lien Credit Facility resulting in enlarging the facility, reducing the current cost of the credit to the Company, and improving certain covenants. Significant changes to the facility include:

- o Increasing the size of the facility from $50 million to $65 million,
- o Reduction of interest rate from a current floating 9% to a floating rate currently at approximately 7.5%,
- o Extending the maturity from January 2006 to February 2007,
- o $45 million of facility becomes a loan with no borrowing base component,
- o Improvement of certain financial covenant tests, and
- o The outstanding balance under the amended facility is approximately $51 million with another approximate $14 million of availability.

Abraxas President, Bob Watson, commented, "We believe that the amendment of this facility demonstrates the value we have added through our continuing development activities, as well as the continuing strength of the commodity markets. This expanded facility removes some restrictions that were impacting our ability to manage our assets and provides us with additional liquidity that we intend to utilize to enhance shareholder value. Cheaper capital with an extended maturity and less exposure to the cyclical nature of our business should allow us to
