NARRATIVE

State below in reasonable detail why Forms 10-K, 20-F, 11-K, 10-Q, N-SAR, N-CSR, or the transition report or portion thereof, could not be filed within the prescribed time period. (Attach extra sheets if necessary.)

On March 17, 2003, the Registrant announced that it had discovered apparent discrepancies relating to previously reported financial information for the Registrant's fiscal years ended January 31, 2001 and 2002 and its first two fiscal quarters for the fiscal year ended January 31, 2003. The Registrant further announced that it was continuing to review those and other matters which may require adjustment, both for the time periods identified above, as well as other periods. The Registrant is working with its independent auditors, outside counsel and others to examine these matters. While the Registrant is seeking to resolve this examination as promptly as possible, the extensive research, review, analysis and related work required to quantify and correct errors in the above referenced financial information and any other matters that may come to the Registrant's attention has extended the duration of the Registrant's audit and the preparation of its financial statements for the fiscal year ended January 31, 2003. Accordingly, the Registrant will not file its annual report on Form 10-K (which was due on May 1, 2003) at this time. The Registrant intends to file such annual report as soon as reasonably practicable.

The statements above regarding matters which may require adjustment, the nature and duration of the Registrant's inquiry into apparent discrepancies in previously reported financial information and other matters, the potential adjustment to financial information, and the filing of the Registrant's annual report on Form 10-K are forward looking within the meaning of the securities laws and regulations. Such forward looking statements involve a number of risks, uncertainties and other factors that may cause actual results to differ materially.

As stated in Part III above and as previously announced, the Registrant is examining apparent discrepancies in previously reported financial information and other matters that may come to its attention.
