[INTEGRATION LEADER/S]

• Thank you for hosting us. We are really pleased to have a chance to talk to the [INSERT GROUP NAME] today.

• Time has been flying by since the deal was announced, but we are going to start at the beginning with a quick look at the deal basics and the benefits – why we’re excited about it

• Then we’ll talk about the “people piece,” – and how we’re going about defining who we are and what we stand for

• And finally, there will be a chance to ask questions. We won’t be able to answer all of them – because this is a work in progress -- but we will share what we know so far

• We want to make sure that everyone understands why this is such a great deal for our investors, customers, and employees

• This deal is about bringing together complementary assets and capabilities that neither company could organically develop on its own

• We will be the clear number two out of the gate: positioned to deliver value from day one

• We will grow to 70,000 employees in 120 countries – a company with strength and scale that can compete with the best of them

• Together the two companies can shift from just products and services, to productivity solutions for our customers.

• We will offer customers a “fullstream” portfolio – from molecules to megawatts

~37,000 EMPLOYEES

~$12.9B REVENUES '16

Improving the health and productivity of operations from extraction to end of use.

For integration planning purposes only. 7

Let's start with a quick look at GE Oil & Gas

$13 billion industry leader with about 37,000 employees

While they currently serve customers in the upstream, midstream, and downstream sectors, the capabilities of our two companies are highly complementary

Just like Baker Hughes, GE Oil & Gas is continually focused on delivering the highest standards of operational and commercial excellence.

Physical Meets Digital

- o Predix is General Electric's software platform for the collection of data from industrial machines
- o GE expects Predix to do for factories and plants what Apple's iOS did for cell phones
- o Software was introduced to the market and made available to all companies in 2015
- o Oil and gas applications
  - Machine and equipment health
  - Reliability management
  - Maintenance and optimization
- o We build intelligent tools that produce data on performance and efficiency
  - Predix will give us the ability to use data in new ways

With Predix, we will be able to use data in entirely new ways

For integration planning purposes only. 8

Let me drill down into digital and why this is really one of the unique elements of the value creation potential of this combination.

GE has been investing in digital capabilities and its Predix application.

This is sort of like Windows for industrial operations. It is a way of monitoring performance and mining data that can be analyzed and fed back into operations for improved performance.

It is used for asset performance, reliability and performance management as well as process optimization for all aspects of our business.

We build intelligent tools that produce data on performance and efficiency. With Predix we will be able to use that data in an entirely new way.

What is the GE Store?

- o GE Store is a centralized resource where GE employees mix and match technology, tools, and ideas to create solutions for customers

- o GE engineers and scientists work together across businesses - Example of transfer from Aviation to Oil and Gas: alternators from aircraft engines used to improve motors in oilfield

- o GE Store principles:
  - Contribute
  - Crowdsourcing
  - Collaborate

For integration planning purposes only. 9

Next, let me tell you about the GE Store

This is GE's centralized, integrated technology development and innovation hub

It is almost like a corporate function that ensures that technology is shared among and pushed into business units so that it can be applied to different business applications

Think of it as collaboration and cross pollination or cross-fertilization across business units

So, if there is a technology breakthrough in materials, battery systems or sensors in healthcare, power or transportation that can be applied to well construction, production optimization or Artificial Lift, drilling or production optimization, we will have access to it and will be able to integrate it into our products

GE spends billions a year on R&D and innovation across its business, and we will be a beneficiary of that investment through the GE Store

Expected synergies are grouped into two categories: cost (in blue) and revenue (in orange)

These include $1.2 billion in cost synergies, as well as $400 million in revenue synergies that we expect to achieve by providing a more comprehensive customer proposition spanning upstream, midstream, and downstream segments, through more customer touch points

Importantly, we believe the growth estimates are conservative and they assume only a modest recovery in broader industry conditions

Common Culture of Innovation, Values,
Purpose

R.C. Boker Thomas Edison Howard Hughes,
Sr.

For integration planning purposes only. 15

That's the story behind why the deal makes so much sense for our customers and shareholders

Now let's talk about why it makes so much sense in terms of people and culture

If we look at the human side of the story, Baker Hughes and GE are very similar

Both have stellar reputations, strong histories of innovation and technology leadership

Similar commitment to safety, the environment and doing the right thing

Two tremendously talented teams of people who share a passion for delivering for customers, as well as for shareholders

Companies that strongly emphasize giving back to the communities in which their people live and work

We are two great working people's companies that are changing the world for the better

We recognize there is always anxiety and uncertainty when you put two companies together.

But employees from both sides will benefit from being part of a larger, more diversified organization

Remember this is a truly complementary combination with little overlap in terms of businesses and capabilities

So it follows that we are putting resources behind understanding the culture and ways of working at each company

We have already launched a regional roadshow – hitting both Baker Hughes and GE Oil & Gas facilities across the globe – because it's important to make sure that we all feel a part of this one-time effort – and we all share in the excitement of what we are creating

We launched a website so that employees can learn more about the capabilities of each company (it is updated every Friday with new information)

We are making an intense effort around our brand strategy – this is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to define who we are and what we stand for

The Edge Group – a group of 12 employees on each side who are not involved in the integration planning -- is set up to give us candid feedback on our assumptions and plans for Day 1.

Culture surveys – we are looking at lots of ways to include employee feedback

So a broad, strong effort to understand each other, and move toward creating a new culture – we have the freedom (from Mothership GE) to create something really quite special

Caution Concerning Forward-Looking Statements

This communication contains "forward-looking" statements as that term is defined in Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended by the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, including statements regarding the proposed transaction between GE and Baker Hughes. All statements, other than historical facts, including statements regarding the expected timing and structure of the proposed transaction; the ability of the parties to complete the proposed transaction considering the various closing conditions; the expected benefits of the proposed transaction such as improved operations, enhanced revenues and cash flow, synergies, growth potential, market profile, customers' business plans and financial strength; the competitive ability and position of the combined company following completion of the proposed transaction, including the projected impact on GE's earnings per share; oil and natural gas market conditions; costs and availability of resources; legal, economic and regulatory conditions; and any assumptions underlying any of the foregoing, are forward-looking statements. Forward-looking statements concern future circumstances and results and other statements that are not historical facts and are sometimes identified by the words "may," "will," "should," "potential," "intend," "expect," "endeavor," "seek," "anticipate," "estimate," "overestimate," "underestimate," "believe," "could," "project," "predict," "continue," "target" or other similar words or expressions. Forward-looking statements are based upon current plans, estimates and expectations that are subject to risks, uncertainties and assumptions. Should one or more of these risks or uncertainties materialize, or should underlying assumptions prove incorrect, actual results may vary materially from those indicated or anticipated by such forward-looking statements. The inclusion of such statements should not be regarded as a representation that such plans, estimates or expectations will be achieved. Important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from such plans, estimates or expectations include, among others, (1) that one or more closing conditions to the transaction, including certain regulatory approvals, may not be satisfied or waived, on a timely basis or otherwise, including that a governmental entity may prohibit, delay or refuse to grant approval for the consummation of the proposed transaction, may require conditions, limitations or restrictions in connection with such approvals or that the required approval by the stockholders of Baker Hughes may not be obtained; (2) the risk that the proposed transaction may not be completed in the time frame expected by GE or Baker Hughes, or at all; (3) unexpected costs, charges or expenses resulting from the proposed transaction; (4) uncertainty of the expected financial performance of the combined company following completion of the proposed transaction; (5) failure to realize the anticipated benefits of the proposed transaction, including as a result of delay in completing the proposed transaction or integrating the businesses of GE, Baker Hughes and Newco; (6) the ability of the combined company to implement its business strategy; (7) difficulties and delays in achieving revenue and cost synergies of the combined company; (8) inability to retain and hire key personnel; (9) the occurrence of any event that could give rise to termination of the proposed transaction; (10) the risk that stockholder litigation in connection with the proposed transaction or other settlements or investigations may affect the timing or occurrence of the contemplated merger or result in significant costs of defense, indemnification and liability; (11) evolving legal, regulatory and tax regimes; (12) changes in general economic and/or industry specific conditions, including oil price changes; (13) actions by third parties, including government agencies; and (14) other risk factors as detailed from time to time in GE's and Baker Hughes' reports filed with the SEC, including GE's and Baker Hughes' annual report on Form 10-K, periodic quarterly reports on Form 10-Q, periodic current reports on Form 8-K and other documents filed with the SEC. The foregoing list of important factors is not exclusive.

Edgar Filing: BAKER HUGHES INC - Form 425

Any forward-looking statements speak only as of the date of this communication. Neither GE nor Baker Hughes undertakes any obligation to update any forward- looking statements, whether as a result of new information or developments, future events or otherwise, except as required by law. Readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on any of these forward-looking statements.
