Corporate Notes for Your Business What are corporate notes? Some large corporations offer direct investment in their company's senior, unsecured debt through corporate note programs. By issuing corporate notes, companies like General Electric Capital Corporation (GE Capital) can borrow capital directly from investors at a fairly low cost, while providing investor benefits such as:

- Higher rates of interest than other cash alternatives like FDIC-insured savings accounts, short-term CDs, and money market mutual funds
- Investments that are fully redeemable at any time
- Convenient banking-type features like free electronic transfers between linked checking accounts, ability to wire funds and 24-7 access via internet and automated telephone service

Corporate notes are a direct, unsecured investment in the debt of a corporation, and so are not FDIC insured. Unlike short-term bond funds or money market mutual funds, they are not diversified pools of investments. Because they are a form of unsecured credit, your business would be treated as an unsecured creditor in the event of a default. That's why it is critical for you to evaluate the financial strength of the company you choose to invest in. The Strength of GE Interest Plus Corporate Notes GE Interest Plus for Businesses is a direct investment in GE Capital. GE Capital is rated AA+ by Standard and Poor's Corporation (S&P) and Aa2 by Moody's Investors Service (Moody's). S&P and Moody's are nationally recognized statistical rating organizations, each approved by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission to measure the safety of securities. By reviewing the credit rating, you can determine if you are investing in a company that is financially sound.
