FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

EL PASO SHAREHOLDER FILES PRELIMINARY PROXY STATEMENT

SEEKING REPLACEMENT OF ENTIRE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Houston, TX (March 11, 2003) Selim K. Zilkha, a major shareholder of El Paso Corporation (NYSE:EP), today filed a preliminary proxy statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The proxy statement describes Mr. Zilkha's plan to replace El Paso's current twelve-member board with a slate of nine nominees.

Mr. Zilkha's filing urges shareholders to replace these directors who have so badly failed us. Mr. Zilkha cited, among other things, the destruction of shareholder value that occurred under the watch of the current board of directors, who proved ineffectual as El Paso's market capitalization from over $37 billion to approximately $3 billion. The incumbent directors, said Mr. Zilkha, presided over a loss in shareholder value of more than 90%. That record speaks for itself – the incumbents must be replaced.

Mr. Zilkha noted that only three of El Paso's twelve incumbent board members have any oil and gas industry operating experience.

In a bid to address El Paso's current problems, return the company to a position of strength and help restore its credibility in the capital markets, Mr. Zilkha said, he has put forward a slate of director nominees that collectively possess over 200 years of oil and gas industry expertise and operating experience. He pointed out that the nominees' experience spans the entire portfolio of El Paso's core businesses, including natural gas pipelines, exploration and production, gas gathering and storage, and natural gas marketing.

The proxy filing states that if Mr. Zilkha's slate is elected it expects interim operating control will be assumed by a committee of the new directors consisting of Messrs. Stephen D. Chesebro, who will head the committee, Ted E. Davis, Ronald J. Burns and John J. Murphy. Each member of the committee has previously run major businesses in the oil and gas industry. Mr. Chesebro's career achievements include running Tenneco Energy and serving as President/COO of Pennzoil Company.
