As of December 31, 2018, cash, including short-term bank deposits and marketable securities (both short and long-term) decreased $332.8 million to $1.3 billion from March 31, 2018. Mr. Uday Baldota, Taro's CEO stated, "While we are pleased with this quarters' results and encouraged by the increase in our overall volumes, we are cautiously optimistic about viewing this as a continuing trend because the challenging generic landscape continues. The recently completed $250 million share repurchase program and payment of the $500 million special dividend, demonstrates our commitment to create shareholder value." Mr. Baldota continued, "Our strong balance sheet and operating cash flow continues to provide us with the flexibility to consider a variety of operational and strategic growth opportunities to further maximize stockholder return over the longer term. We remain committed to maintain a disciplined capital allocation strategy."
