REPORT OF INDEPENDENT ACCOUNTANTS

Mexico City, February 14, 2002

To the Shareholders of Pegaso Telecomunicaciones, S. A. de C. V.

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheets of Pegaso Telecomunicaciones, S. A. de C. V. and subsidiaries (the Company) as of December 31, 2001 and 2000, and the related consolidated statements of income, of stockholders' equity and of changes in financial position for the years ended December 31, 2001, 2000 and 1999. These consolidated financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatements. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As mentioned in Note 11 to the consolidated financial statements, the Company has incurred recurring operating losses and has a net deficiency in its stockholders' equity which is a cause of dissolution.

The accompanying consolidated financial statements and the related notes were prepared on the assumption that the company will continue to operate as a going concern.

As mentioned in Note 2 to the financial statements, the Company formalized a Temporary Funding Agreement on January 16, 2002, whereby Qualcomm Incorporated (supplier of equipment and creditor of the Bridge Loan) will provide temporary funding of US$60 million with the option to provide US$100 million more as special additional loans.

As mentioned in Notes 7 and 9, at the date of issuance of these financial statements the company requested the issuance of waivers for failure to comply with certain obligations and covenants under the Bridge Loan Agreement and the Vendor Loan Agreement. On January 16, 2002, the group of lenders agreed to grant temporary, conditional, limited Forbearance, and that they would not execute the guarantees provided by the Company at least during the period from February 15, 2002 to June 30, 2002, depending on certain events, but they also stated that they would not issue waivers for failure to comply with the Company's obligations and covenants under any of the above-mentioned agreements. Consequently, long-term loan portion of US$460 million owed under the financing agreements mentioned above has been reclassified as a short-term liability in the balance sheet as of December 31, 2001.

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Pegaso Telecomunicaciones, S. A. de C. V. and subsidiaries as of December 31, 2001 and 2000, and the results of their operations, the changes in their stockholders' equity and the changes in their financial position for the years ended December 31, 2001, 2000 and 1999, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

NOTES TO THE CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

DECEMBER 31, 2001 AND 2000

(Amounts expressed in thousands of U.S. Dollars)

NOTE 1 OPERATIONS OF THE COMPANY AND SUBSIDIARIES:

Pegaso Telecomunicaciones, S. A. de C. V. (Telecomunicaciones), a Mexican holding company, was incorporated on June 24, 1998, for a period of 99 years. At December 31, 2001, the stockholders of Telecomunicaciones were Mr. Alejandro Burillo Azcárraga (Mr. Burillo) and related parties, Sprint México, Inc., a subsidiary of Sprint Corporation (Sprint), Leap PCS México, Inc. a subsidiary of Leap Wireless International, Inc. Table of Contents

The Company is engaged in providing nationwide mobile telephone services in Mexico. Comunicaciones y Sistemas holds the concessions granted by the Mexican Ministry of Communications (Secretaría de Comunicaciones y Transportes - SCT).

The concessions include the rights to install, operate and exploit a nationwide public telecommunications network for a period of up to 20 years, with an option to extend the concessions at the end of the 20-year period. (See Note 6)

As of December 31, 2000 the Company provided telecommunications services in the cities of Tijuana, Guadalajara, Monterrey, Mexico City, Ensenada, Nuevo Laredo, Reynosa, Toluca and Chapala. Additionally, as of December 31, 2001, the same services were provided in Mexicali, Saltillo and Cuernavaca. A total of 12 cities throughout Mexico are now receiving this service. The Company's strategy is to continue to spread its communications network and expand the range of services offered to customers.

NOTE 2 COMPANY'S FINANCIAL POSITION AND SUBSEQUENT EVENTS:

Given the nature of the Company's capital and the resources necessary for rendering telecommunications services, the Company has been required to make a significant amount of investments in order to carry out its business strategy, for the purpose of constructing a substantial portion of its network prior to generating sufficient income from its customers, thus first incurring in operating losses until an adequate customer base is established. The Company's development from its incorporation has been financed through capital contributions by the stockholders (see Note 11) and through the various credit lines described in Notes 7 and 9. Those credit lines are guaranteed with all the properties, rights and assets of Comunicaciones y Sistemas, Telecomunicaciones and other subsidiaries. As a result of the foregoing, the Company had lost its entire capital stock at December 31, 2001. Additionally, in the last quarter of 2001, the Company failed to comply with certain obligations and covenants established by the various credit line agreements. Recovery of the Company's investments depends entirely on future events, such as the stability of the Mexican economy, securing appropriate additional financing to develop and expand its public telecommunications network, and achieving the necessary level of operating income to cover its cost structure.

Company's management is actively engaged in negotiations to secure the additional capital and financing necessary to cover the requirements of the Company's business plan. Management trusts that this additional capital will be obtained in order to permit the Company to continue with its operations.

a. Interim Funding Agreement

As a result of the aforementioned efforts, on January 16, 2002, the company signed an Interim Funding Agreement with Qualcomm Incorporated (Qualcomm), which is the supplier of financed equipment and the creditor of the bridge loan. Under this agreement, Qualcomm will provide $60,000 in cash. These funds should be used to pay minimum working capital expenses in accordance with a temporary business plan.

Table of Contents

This agreement establishes the option of additional financing of up to $100,000 under the same financing terms provided for prior Qualcomm vendor and common agreements.

Both the principal and interest of the loans are due and payable in the short term.

b. Forbearance letters

In connection with the signing of the Interim Funding Agreement, various other agreements were arrived at on January 16, 2002, of which the most important are the following:

A Bridge Forbearance Letter for the vendor agreement signed by Qualcomm which defines Events of Default (known as Bridge Default) as the result of the Company's failure to pay the Bridge Loan in accordance with the due dates stated in the Bridge Loan Agreement and its six amendments and the known Vendor Facility Defaults specified in the Vendor Forbearance Letter mentioned below.

A Vendor Forbearance Letter for the agreement with the suppliers of financed equipment (Qualcomm, Ericsson and Alcatel) provided by the suppliers of the equipment and supported by the Citibank International, ABN AMRO BANK NV and Electro Banque as administrative agents. This letter establishes as a known default the Company's failure to promptly pay interest due through the third quarter of 2001 under each vendor agreement; and its failure to comply with the financing leverage ratios, as established in the common agreement. The known default in the bridge loan forbearance letter is also considered a known default for the purposes of this agreement.

In the aforementioned two forbearance letters, Qualcomm, Alcatel and Ericsson agree to forbear said defaults under certain terms and conditions, until certain termination events occur, such as this occurrence of new defaults. Additionally, its termination is also subject to the conditions and termination dates of the Interim Temporary Funding Agreement mentioned above. Despite the aforementioned forbearance granted, the creditors (Qualcomm, Ericsson and Alcatel) (a) understand and agree that none of them will have waived any event of defaults included in each of the forbearance letters (b) agree that they may declare an event of default (including the known default upon termination of the forbearance granted in the letters) at any time, pursuant to the terms of the common agreement or any financing agreement, and upon there exercise any of the rights, powers and remedies concerning such Event of Default. Therefore, the long-term portion of $460 million owed under the financing agreement mentioned above has been reclassified as a short-term liability in the balance sheet at December 31, 2001.

c. Other agreements

As part of the conditions for signing the Temporary Funding Agreement mentioned earlier, the Company's stockholders, together with the creditors and the suppliers of financed equipment, signed certain additional agreements to state the terms, definitions and interpretation of obligations and commitments.

Table of Contents

The aforementioned agreements and other documents form part of the exhibits and the complementary documentation to the temporary funding agreement.

d. Principal agreements arrived at during the stockholders' meeting of January 11, 2002

On January 11, 2002, the Company's shareholders decided to cancel all existing treasury shares (51,216,460 treasury shares) and at the same date decided to issue 57,216,460 new treasury shares, of which 1,216,460 original option shares may be subscribed and paid in as Class N shares by Qualcomm, Leap Wireless and Mr. Burillo, based on the option agreements signed on May 27, 1999 and amended on November 17, 2000.

Up to 50,000,000 funding commitment shares may be subscribed and paid in by the Company's shareholders as Class 1, Class 3, Class 4, Class 5 and Class N shares, as per the terms of the agreement known as the Funding commitment letter .

Up to 3,000,000 new option shares may be subscribed and paid in as Class N shares by Qualcomm under the terms of the new option agreement for the subscription of shares, provided the Company receives financing of US$60,000. Up to 3,000,000 additional shares may be subscribed and paid in by Qualcomm, provided the company receives financing of up to US$100,000.

NOTE 3 SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES:

The accompanying consolidated financial statements include the adjustment and translation of the Mexican peso consolidated financial statements prepared in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in Mexico. Such financial statements constitute a suitable basis for adjustment and translation into U.S. dollars for purposes of expressing them in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

The significant accounting policies, as adjusted, are summarized below:

a. Translation -

For the purposes of translating its Mexican peso financial statements to U.S. dollars in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standard No. 52, the Company uses the Mexican peso as its functional currency. Accordingly, monetary and non-monetary assets and liabilities are translated into U.S. dollars at the exchange rate in effect at the balance sheet date. Capital stock has been translated at historic observed exchange rates. Revenue, expenses, gains and losses are translated at the average exchange rate for the year. The net equity effects of translation are recorded in the cumulative foreign currency translation adjustment account as a part of other accrued comprehensive income.

Table of Contents

b. Consolidation -

The accompanying financial statements include the accounts of Telecomunicaciones and its wholly-owned subsidiaries prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. All significant intercompany balances and transactions have been eliminated in the consolidation.

c. Cash equivalents -

Cash equivalents are recorded at cost, which approximates market value, and include all investments purchased with original maturities of three months or less.

d. Inventories and cost of sales -

Inventories are initially recorded at average cost and subsequently adjusted through an allowance for realization. The resulting amounts are not in excess of market value.

Cost of sales is recorded following the average cost method.

e. Advertising costs -

Advertising costs are recorded as incurred. Prepaid media advertising, including television airtime, magazine and other print media, is deferred and recorded as a current asset, and recorded when the advertising airtime or space is used.

f. Property, furniture and telecommunications equipment -

Property, furniture, telecommunications equipment and capital leases are recorded at cost.

Depreciation is calculated by the straight-line method, based on the estimated useful lives of the assets, ranging from four to twenty years.

Leasehold improvements are capitalized at cost and are amortized using the straight-line method over a period no longer than the lease period.

g. Public telecommunications network concessions -

The public telecommunications network concessions include the cost of the radio-electric frequency band concession and other related costs, and are recorded at cost.

Amortization is calculated by the straight-line method over the concession period, which is 20 years.

Table of Contents

h. Income tax -

Current income tax is the amount of income tax expected to be payable for the current period. A deferred tax asset or liability is computed for both the expected future impact of differences between the financial statement and tax bases of assets and liabilities and for the expected future tax benefit to be derived from tax loss carryforwards. A valuation allowance is established for deferred tax assets not expected to be realized.

i. Capitalized interest cost -

Property, furniture and telecommunications equipment, as well as the public telecommunications network concessions, include the capitalization of the interest costs pertaining to their acquisition.

j. Revenue recognition -

The Company's revenue recognition policies are in compliance with Securities and Exchange Commission Staff Accounting Bulletin No. 101, Revenue Recognition in Financial Statements .

Revenue from prepaid airtime, free airtime, calling party pays, roaming and interconnection fees and postpaid services are recognized as revenue when the service is provided.

The revenue and related expenses associated with the sale of handsets are recognized when the products are activated by customers (First Call Activity), as this is considered to be a separate income from the sale of wireless services.

k. Impairment of long-lived assets -

The Company evaluates potential impairment losses on long-lived assets by assessing whether the unamortized carrying amount can be recovered over the remaining life of the assets through undiscounted future expected cash flows generated by the assets at no interest charges. If the sum of the expected future undiscounted cash flows is less than the carrying amount of the assets, a loss is recognized for the difference between the fair value and carrying value of the assets. Long-lived assets are reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount may not be recoverable. No impairment losses have been recorded by the Company.

l. Concentrations of credit risk -

Financial instruments that potentially subject the Company to significant concentrations of credit risk consist primarily of cash and cash equivalents and trade accounts receivable.

The Company maintains its cash and cash equivalents at various major financial institutions, and they are principally invested in short-term deposits and money market accounts.

Table of Contents

Concentration of credit risk with respect to trade accounts receivable is limited due to the large number of customers throughout Mexico. The Company maintains allowances for doubtful accounts based on the expected collectibility of all receivables.

m. Fair value of financial instruments -

The estimated fair value of the Company's financial instruments has been determined using available market information and appropriate valuation methodologies. The carrying value of cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable and accounts payable approximate their fair values because of the short-term maturity of these instruments. The Company's bank loans and other debts are subject to interest at variable rates, and as a result, the book value of such liabilities approximates their fair values.

n. New accounting requirements -

On July 20, 2001, the FASB issued FASB Statement No. 141 (SFAS 141), Business Combinations, and FASB Statement No. 142 (SFAS 142), Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets. SFAS 141 replaces Accounting Principles Board Opinion No. 16 (APB 16), and is effective for acquisitions made after June 30, 2001. The Company is not currently involved in any business combination.

SFAS 142 replaces APB 17, Intangible Assets. It primarily addresses the accounting that must be applied to goodwill and intangible assets subsequent to their initial recognition. The provisions of SFAS 142 will be effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2001. However, early adoption is permitted in certain instances. Among the new requirements and guidance set forth in SFAS 142, are (1) indefinite-lived intangible assets will no longer be amortized; (2) non-amortizable intangible assets will be tested for impairment at least annually; (3) the amortization period of intangible assets that have finite lives will no longer be limited to forty years; and (4) additional financial statement disclosures about intangible assets will be required.

In June 2001, the Financial Accounting Standards Board issued SFAS No. 143, Accounting for Asset Retirement Obligations. This standard requires that obligations associated with the retirement of a tangible long-lived asset be recorded as a liability when those obligations are incurred, with the amount of the liability initially measured at fair value. The provisions of this statement will be effective for financial statements issued for fiscal years beginning after June 15, 2002.

In October 2001, the Financial Accounting Standards Board issued SFAS No. 144, Accounting for the Impairment or Disposal of Long-Lived Assets. This statement supersedes SFAS No. 121, Accounting for the Impairment of Long-Lived Assets and for Long-Lived Assets to Be Disposed Of. The primary purpose of SFAS No. 144 is to establish guidelines to create a consistent accounting model for the impairment of long-lived assets to be disposed of and to clarify some implementation issues of SFAS No. 121. The provisions of this Statement are effective for financial statements issued for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2001, with early application encouraged.

NOTE 7 BRIDGE LOAN:

On May 27, 1999, the Company entered into a Bridge Loan Agreement with a group of banks. However, as from June 31, 2001, Qualcomm Incorporated (Qualcomm) is the only creditor under this Bridge Loan.

Under this agreement, the Company may initially borrow principal amounts of up to $100,000 and $15,000 as a credit facility to finance interest payments at varying interest rates. The agreement contains certain covenants, including, but not limited to, a restriction on the payment of dividends and the sale of fixed assets.

On the same date, Qualcomm and Citibank N.A entered into a Guaranty Agreement (Qualcomm Guaranty) under which Qualcomm guarantees timely payment in full of all the Company's obligations under the Bridge Loan Agreement.

To induce Qualcomm to enter into the Bridge Loan Agreement and to issue the Qualcomm Guaranty:

1. The Company entered into a Stock Option Agreement with Qualcomm, dated May 27, 1999, under which Qualcomm was granted an option to subscribe and purchase 353,585 limited-vote Series N treasury shares of the Company's capital stock, with no par value.

Table of Contents

The option may be exercised at any time or from time to time on or after the earlier of (x) the date on which any and all amounts under the Bridge Loan Agreement are paid in full and (y) the scheduled maturity date of the Bridge Loan, which is currently August 29, 2002. The exercise price of the option is US$0.01, each, based on the initial financing of $100,000.

2. Leap entered into a counter-guaranty providing for a guarantee by Leap of 33% of the Company's obligations under the Bridge Loan Agreement.
3. Mr. Burillo entered into a counter-guaranty providing for a guarantee by Mr. Burillo of 15% of the Company's obligations under the Bridge Loan Agreement.

In addition, as a condition for Leap and Mr. Burillo to issue the above-mentioned counter-guaranties, the Company entered into a Stock Option Agreement with each of them on May 27, 1999, under which Leap and Mr. Burillo were granted an option to subscribe and purchase up to 243,090 and 110,495, respectively, limited-vote Series N treasury shares of the Company's capital stock, with no par value (see Note 11). The terms of these contracts are similar to those in the Stock Option Agreement entered into by the Company and Qualcomm.

Additionally, an Irrevocable Administration and Guarantee Trust agreement was signed by Leap and Mr. Burillo as trustors, Qualcomm as beneficiary, and Banco INVEX, S.A., Institución de Banca Múltiple (INVEX) as trustee. Under this agreement, INVEX may exercise the options on behalf of Qualcomm to execute the counter-guarantee.

As from May 27, 1999 to date, there have been six amendments as follows:

Amendment Number and date
1st February 8, 2000	Borrowing amount was increased to $175,000 and $15,000 for interest facility. Interest rates were increased by approximately 1%.

Under the vendor financing facilities with Alcatel and Qualcomm, some of the borrowings are initially classified as short-term debt until they are rolled over into a long-term facility.

On October 10, 2001, the third amendment to the financing agreement was signed by Qualcomm and Ericsson to authorize an additional credit of $150,000 of which $96,000 is from Qualcomm and $54,000 from Ericsson (see Note 2).

At October 31, December 3 and 31, 2001, quarterly interest became payable to Qualcomm, which was not covered on time, nor were the financial leverage ratios complied with, which constituted a default in the common and financing agreements. The Company received a forbearance letter from Qualcomm as described in Note 2.

Given the aforementioned default, the company set up an unpaid interest provision at a rate 2 percentage points above the original rate.

Interest incurred in 2001, 2000 and 1999 amounted to $36,148, $21,578 and $15,319, respectively.

Telecomunicaciones and its subsidiaries pay income tax and asset tax on an individual basis.

Asset tax is determined by applying the rate of 1.8% to the net amount of certain assets and liabilities, and is payable only when asset tax exceeds income tax. The Company will not be subject to the payment of asset tax until the year 2002, since the Mexican Tax Law states that start-up companies are not subject to asset tax payment during the first four years as from the date of incorporation.

Employees' statutory profit sharing is determined at the rate of 10% on the taxable income of each company, on a basis similar to income tax. For the year ended December 31, 2001 and 2000, the Company generated no taxable income subject to the payment of employees' statutory profit sharing. For the period ended December 31, 1999, one of the Company's subsidiaries, Pegaso Recursos Humanos generated employees' statutory profit sharing amounting to $175.
